

Elon Musk and Jeff Bezos attended a conference in San Francisco last Thursday.

They discussed future collaborations between Tesla and Blue Origin.

Elon said he was excited about the partnership, and Jeff agreed.

Meanwhile, Sarah Connor was meeting with Microsoft executives in Seattle.

She told them that she had already spoken to Elon about AI integration.

Later, Sarah and her team flew to New York for a tech summit.

It was there that she met with other CEOs to finalize the deal.

They all seemed optimistic, especially after hearing Jeff's proposal.